How did it start?

1982 - Jane Knitzer published Unclaimed Children: The Failure of Public Responsibility to Children and Adolescents in Need of Mental Health Services thus setting in motion a call to action for children's mental health --- and the rise of the family and youth movements.

<https://www.nccp.org/publication/ucr-the-status-of-childrens-mental-health-policy-in-the-united-states/>

... partnerships with families and their organizations!

- Congress funded the Child & Adolescent Service System Program (CASSP)

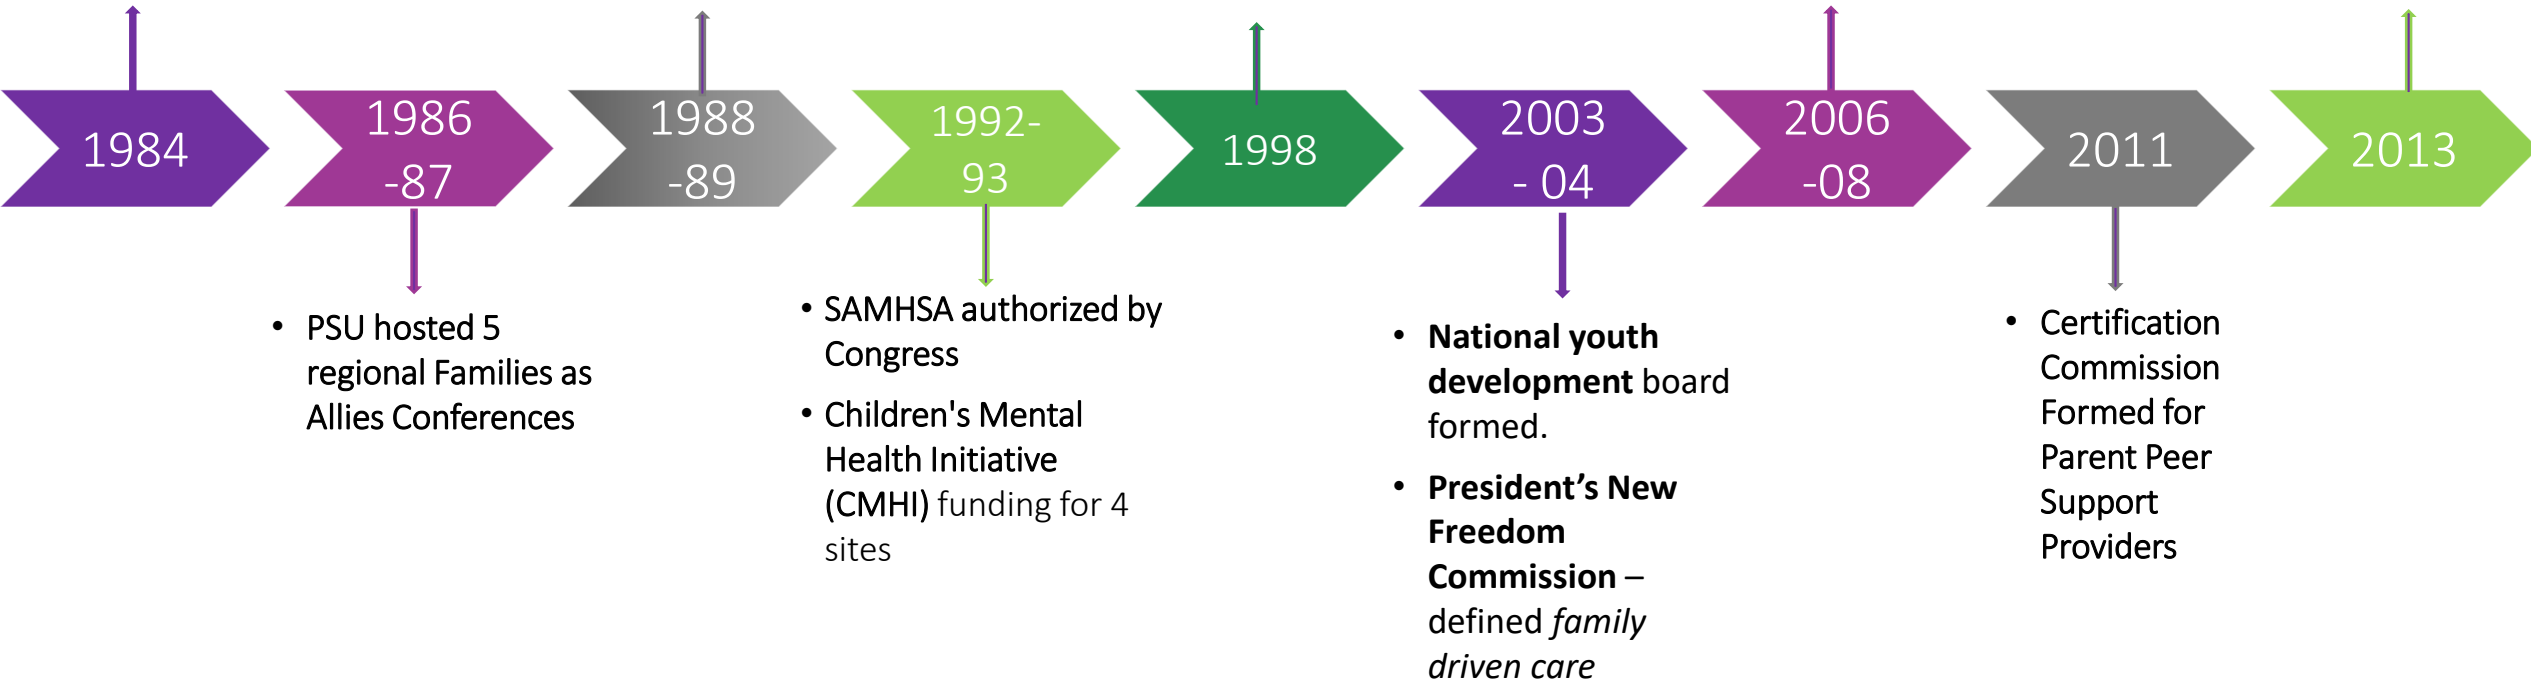

- CASSP and the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research (NIDRR), established the first Research and Training Center on Family Support and Children's Mental Health at PSU

- First Federal Funding for Family-Run Organizations
- Next Steps Conference
- Federation of Families for CMH Incorporated

In 1998 family advocates, wraparound trainers, providers, and researchers gathered at Duke University and debated the definition and core components of the wraparound model, identifying 10 essential elements.

- Youth MOVE National established
- Youth MOVE National Incorporated
- First Youth MOVE chapter

- FREDLA was established by 16 family organizations

The necessary elements

1. Mission: Dedicated to supporting families caring for a child or youth with mental, emotional, behavioral or substance abuse needs
2. Governance: Board of the organization is comprised of at least 50% family members with “lived experience”
3. Personnel: Executive Director and all staff members providing support are family members
4. Family voice: Promotes family voice at all levels of the organization and system

Models can change over time

“Lived experience” is defined as a parent or another individual who is, or has been, the primary caregiver for a child with mental health, emotional, behavioral, or substance abuse needs.

National Status

Today's landscape

- There are almost 120 active family-run organizations in the US
- Federal funding from SAMHSA has significantly decreased for statewide family networks

What we've learned

- Sustainability
 - Move from transactional → relational
 - 'Healthy families' are everyone's business
 - Workplace, community, all systems, etc.
- Mission alignment with funding
 - Distractions will come your way
- Solely relying on Medicaid reimbursement or any single funding source puts the org in jeopardy
 - Diversify
